Issue 80 Part 1

JULIENAS «Roche Bleue» - 2019 : 91 POINTS

2019 Juliénas “Roche Bleue”: A brooding but appealingly layered earthy and peppery dark berry fruit nose is clearly ripe yet reasonably fresh. There is very good volume to the delicious, round and supple medium weight flavors that possess very good depth and persistence where the only nit is noticeable if not really intrusive warmth. This velvet-textured effort could certainly be enjoyed now but one that has enough underlying stuffing to easily repay 5 to 8 years of cellaring. I would add that if warmth is an aspect that you’re sensitive to then this may not appeal because as I note, it’s enough to notice. 91/2024+

MORGON «Corcelette» - 2019 : 91 POINTS

2019 Morgon “Corcelette”: A slightly riper but more complex nose speaks of poached plum, spice, plenty of earth and the classic hint of black pepper character. There is both good volume and vibrancy to the delicious middle weight flavors that retain very good delineation on the youthfully austere and equally complex finale. There is a hint of the hallmark Morgon rusticity and a touch of warmth (though it’s less evident than with the Roche Bleue) but overall, this too is very good. 91/2025+
